

MIT CENTER FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Human Rights & Technology

Fellows receive $2,000
to pursue their research

Open to all MIT students, both grads and undergrads

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

The program will support the students' research, participation in a working group, and other activities. It is intended to produce new knowledge about the relationship between human rights and technology—both how technology can enhance human rights work, and how the use of technology can impede human rights.

Proposals must be stand-alone research or original, collaborative work.

Applications due to John Tirman, tirman@mit.edu.

Awardees will be announced November 1st.

DUE OCT 25 at 5PM

More Info: <http://bit.ly/MITHRTech>