

MIT CENTER FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDIES
CIS STARR FORUM ON THE RISE OF CHINA

“China, the U.S. and the Worldwide Search for Energy Security”

Professor Zha Daojiong

Chair, Department of International Political Economy
Director, Center for International Energy Security
School of International Studies, Renmin University, Beijing

Tuesday, November 7, 2006

12:00 — 1:30 p.m.

MIT Center for International Studies
Building E38, Room 615 (conference room)
292 Main Street, Cambridge

(Next to the Kendall Square T Stop on the Red Line)

The Starr Forum on the Rise of China series addresses the effect of China's growing economic power and national competitiveness on such global sustainability topics as global resource consumption, greenhouse gas production and climate change, international public health and disease control, and regional military security. For updates on the series, see:

http://web.mit.edu/cis/starr_china.html.

Refreshments will be served.